During my time at SJBC I studied A Level Biology, Chemistry and Psychology. I wouldn't say they were easy subjects, particularly Chemistry however I did thoroughly enjoy my experience, and looking back now I am very happy with my decision to pursue A Levels and to go on to university. A Levels most definitely do prepare you for university as studying is completely independent.

I am currently in my final year and as well as completing my degree I have joined a range of societies including the Bio Soc, Arab Society and North African Society. At university, your educational life is very different, and I can personally say that it does get easier. Now, I am also tutoring Biology and Chemistry to younger students in the area and look forward to pursuing a medical degree in the near future.
